Budget may balance

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

An increase of over $1 million from last year in state aid could help Granite City School District 9 balance its budget.

Norman Owca, director of finance for the district, said if the district receives all the money that has been promised, the district could almost be in the black for Fiscal 1985-86.

Owca, however, isn't counting on anything just yet.

"NEVER COUNT ON that money until you get that first check," he said. "I see all these numbers, but I'm never sure until I get a printout from the state and that first check."

Owca said the district usually comes around Aug. 3 and the first check on Aug. 15.

"Things can change sometimes between now and then," he said. "The governor hasn't signed it yet, for one thing. But if it does come, it would be great. It would be a little more than we expected."

According to figures released by the Illinois State Board of Education June 30, the funding passed would net Granite City $10,375,854.02, an increase of $1,016,671 over the 1984-85 figure.

STATE REP. SAM WOLF, D-Granite City, said he supported the funding because "it means more funds for our local districts when they need it the most."

Venice School District 3 also did well under the new formula. It will receive $450,890 this year, compared with $351,014 last year.

Madison School District 12, however, would lose $11,000 from last year's total, getting $2,686,393, compared with $2,697,394.

That loss could be attributed to a drop in students enrolled in programs for the educationally deprived and disadvantaged, officials said.

THE REVISED formula was set up as an incentive for dual districts to consolidate into unit districts. Dual systems have separate elementary and high school districts, while unit districts offer kindergarten through twelfth grade classes.

"That's all we've heard," said Frank Kraus, outgoing superintendent of the Granite City Schools. "They were trying to get an incentive to encourage those dual districts to consolidate."

"It was something started by the new state superintendent (Ted Sanders) as part of his education reform plan. That's great. That increase in funds should really help us."

Owca said state aid is paid in 22 installments throughout the year. Payments are made on the 1st and 15th of every month except July. Double payments are made in the June checks.

Pennekamp taking new job

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

The resignation of James R. Pennekamp, executive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, was announced Wednesday.

Pennekamp said he has accepted the position of president of the Greater Alton/Twin Rivers Growth Association. He will leave his position at the local chamber on July 19.

"THIS WAS an unsolicited job offer. I was not looking for other employment," Pennekamp said.

He said he received a call from a search committee member in Alton about three weeks ago and was asked to send in his resume. Pennekamp said he received an offer from the Alton association a week ago.

"I accepted the position for two reasons — my professional development and the chance for better things for my family," Pennekamp said. "These things are always the priorities when considering a new job."

Pennekamp, 35, has worked as top executive of the Tri-Cities Area chamber since May 1983.

DURING HIS TIME in this area, he has worked on several programs, including the creation of the position of city coordinator, the establishment of the Southwestern Madison County Enterprise Zone, the move to this area of Heidman Steel and Caulfield Equipment, and the reopening of A.O. Smith Corp.

"These accomplishments are not unusual. They are the day to day workings of an economic developer," Pennekamp said.

"I want to stress that I did not work alone on these projects. I had the cooperation of many businessmen and city officials."

Public aid checks are coming

By DAVE WHALEY

Public aid checks should arrive Monday, following a decision reached Friday night by Illinois House.

The $3.4 billion Department of Public Aid budget had been stalled in the House, halting welfare checks for more than 50,000 of the state's poor and disabled.

REPUBLICAN HOUSE members were united in opposition to passage of the budget unless they could get some guarantees for projects added onto Gov. James Thompson's $2.3 billion Build Illinois public works program.

The House convened on the 4th of July for the first time in memory in an effort to solve the problem, but to no avail.

Bills considered after June 30 require a three-fifths vote for passage. There are 118 members in the House, requiring 71 votes in favor of any such bill.

ON THURSDAY, Democratic House members voted 65-0 in favor of the public aid appropriation, six votes short of that needed to send the bill to Thompson for his signature.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said the bill was the first thing on the agenda Friday, with that session beginning at 2 p.m.

He said Republicans added approximately $378 million for public works projects in Republican areas of the state.

Republicans, meanwhile, complained that some House Democrats, in effect, were trying to change the Build Illinois proposal to "Build Chicago."

"WE FEEL THAT public aid should not be held hostage for these things," Wolf said. "It's hard to say right now if any votes will change. There are high feelings on both sides of the aisle on this issue."

Cooking explosion burns 3 people

Three people were burned Friday afternoon when a pressure cooker exploded in a home at 1705 Venice Ave.

Those burned were William Swigert, 69, and his wife, Ora Swigert, 55, both of 1705 Venice, and their son, Marty Swigert, 39, of 2632 Pontoon Road.

THE SWIGERTS are believed to have been cooking beefs. When one of them attempted to remove the lid, the cooker exploded and the three were burned by steam and hot water thrown out from the cooker.

According to a Granite City emergency medical technician, Marty Swigert was more seriously burned than his parents.

HE RECEIVED second and third degree burns on 35 percent of his body, including his arms, shoulders, abdomen and chest, and first degree burns on his throat. William Swigert received first and second degree burns to his upper arms, shoulders, sides of his chest and abdomen.

Mrs. Swigert received minor first degree burns to her lower legs. She was treated and then released from St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

William and Marty Swigert were listed in serious condition Friday in SEMC's intensive care unit.

More persons seeking work in Granite City

More persons are working in Granite City, but the unemployment rate is 1.5 percent higher, according to Velda Gerstenecker, Illinois Department of Job Security, Belleville.

The city's jobless rate rose from 13.1 percent in April to 14.6 percent in May, Gerstenecker said.

"Why there's a (jobless) concentration in Granite City, I don't know," Gerstenecker said, noting other area communities did not show similar increases.

However, she said the seasonal fluctuation of students into the job market could at least partially explain why there are more people both working and looking for work.

The number working in Granite City increased by 225 persons, from 16,650 in April to 16,875 in May. Simultaneously, the number seeking work increased by 600, from 19,150 to 19,750.

For the five-county area, which includes Madison, St. Clair, Clinton, Jersey and Monroe counties, the jobless figures rose by 775, from 30,900 in April to 31,675 in May. The rate of unemployment remained stable at 10.4 percent.

Taracorp to pay $500,000

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

National Lead Industries-Taracorp Lead Smelter will pay for a $500,000 pollution study and assessment of the Granite City lead smelter and reclamation facility, according to an agreement approved by a federal bankruptcy court in Atlanta this week.

The 25-acre lead smelter and waste pile, near the intersection of 15th and State streets, is one of 11 proposed Superfund sites in Illinois. (The Superfund was established by Congress in 1980 as a national trust to provide funds for cleaning up hazardous sites.)

Officials hope to determine if any lead contamination is attributable to the site. There are approximately 225,000 tons of broken batteries, furnace slag and other lead wastes on the site, according to Illinois Environmental Protection Agency officials.

The 15-month study will evaluate the extent of the pollution, identify the waste present at the site, examine hydro-geological (subsurface soil) conditions, surface soil, groundwater, surface water and air quality.

As part of the study, NL is responsible for developing clean-up options through available waste-management technologies. Superfund also requires a community-relations program that encourages public comment and a review of proposed clean-up alternatives.

The investigation and study must be approved by state and federal authorities. Taracorp, which purchased the recycling facility in 1979 from NL, has filed for reorganization in U.S. bankruptcy court. The case has been under consideration for more than two years.

The $500,000 study recently approved will cover the cost of the study and, perhaps, part of the cleanup, IEPA officials said.

In addition, NL has agreed to pay $50,000 to the Illinois Hazardous Waste Fund, which contains monies set aside for the clean-up of hazardous wastes at abandoned sites.

Pentagon hides chopper flaws

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — War is a dangerous business, but by rights the danger should come from enemy fire, not our soldiers' own equipment. Yet the Pentagon is not only painfully slow to correct dangerous flaws in U.S. military hardware — it is scandalously reluctant even to admit that flaws exist.

So while the brass hats fiddle and obfuscate, the young Americans we ask to put their lives on the line in our defense are being killed or maimed in accidents that might have been prevented if their commanders had been less stubborn about admitting mistakes.

Take the Chinook CH-47 helicopter. It has two sets of rotor blades mounted on top, spinning in opposite directions. Their blade tips overlap, and the only thing that keeps them from chewing each other up is a "combining transmission" — obviously a crucial mechanism.

Yet Pentagon officials apparently don't want to admit that the design is so delicate and complicated that it invites trouble. So instead of making an adjustment — like moving the two sets of blades farther apart so they couldn't possibly hit — they simply deny repeated evidence that the complex transmission is to blame for accidents that have beset the Chinook.

In reporting last year on a 1982 Chinook crash in Mannheim, West Germany, that claimed 46 lives, we quoted a former top Army safety officer who said experts meeting after the crash admitted there had been 22 accidents involving the combining transmission in the previous 18 months alone.

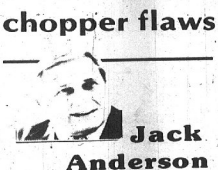

Army officials vehemently denied this, and continue to absolve the tricky transmission of blame for Chinook crashes. A high Pentagon official recently told the Washington Post, for example, that the Army's safety experts were not aware of "any previous incidents involving the combining transmission."

Documents obtained by our associate Donald Goldberg state that the underlying cause of the Mannheim crash was a malfunction in the forward transmission. "Essentially, the crash of the CH-47 resulted when the lubricator oil in the forward transmission input assembly became clogged," the accident report explained.

The final report also notes that a Chinook "experienced a similar but not fatal problem at Fort Carson, Colo., approximately six weeks prior to the Mannheim accident. So the Army's experts must have known about the problem."

In fact, accident reports we've obtained detail three fatal accidents involving "meshing of the rotor blades" that dated back to 1968. They took a total of 25 American lives.

How many times does something have to go wrong before the Army decides it should correct the prob-

UNDER THE DOME: The poorest congressional district in the nation is New York's 18th, in the South Bronx — the site of "pork barrel opportunities" for presidential candidates every four years. Three other New York City districts — the 11th, 12th and 16th — are among the nation's 10 poorest. The others are Mississippi's 1st, just across the Mississippi River; Kentucky's 5th, in the southeastern mountains; Michigan's 13th (Detroit area); California's 29th (Los Angeles); and Pennsylvania's 1st (Philadelphia).

When President Reagan threatened to veto a supplemental appropriations measure because it contained several "pork-barrel" water projects, Congress tacked onto the bill the president's requested funding of anti-Sandinista Nicaraguan guerrillas. Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., called it "pork insurance."

Rep. Edward Feighan, D-Ohio, would like to borrow the White House maintenance crew that located and removed the cricket that was trapped in an air vent and was keeping Nancy Reagan awake with its chirping. An awful smell is enveloping the White House, and he thinks there may be "a dead rat smothered in anchovies" somewhere in the wall near an air vent. The House maintenance man can't find it.

WATCH ON WASTE: Forget the Pentagon's $7,600 coffee pots, $60 ash trays and $600 toilet seats. We've found a Defense Department procurement story in which the Army has actually saved money. So far this year, the armed services have put in requisitions for $340,914 worth of red, pitted maraschino cherries, which will be used to garnish salads. And the brass hats are buying cherries without stems because they're cheaper.

SLOWPOKE OF THE WEEK: Our slower-than-the-post-office award this week goes to the CIA. We just received the agency's response to a Freedom of Information Act request for certain materials about the neo-Nazi movement in America, consisting of two heavily censored documents and a note of apology "for the length of time it has taken us to complete the processing of your request." We filed the request more than four years ago.

Enterprise zone an example of cooperation

I laud the official announcement made by Gov. James Thompson designating a 9.57 square mile area in Granite City, Madison and Venice as the Southwestern Madison County Enterprise Zone. We owe a debt of gratitude to who labored for and promoted this project.

The business community and local political leaders have pledged to cooperate and work together toward the development of the enterprise zone. In Gov. Thompson's letter he said that "these cooperative efforts will help increase the area's ability to attract suppliers of auto manufacturers, expand the use of the Foreign Trade Zone and improve infrastructure."

How about infrastructure? This much-used word simply means a foundation. However, the approach to creating a solid infrastructure should not be oversimplified.

It will take a concerted effort to improve our present infrastructure before we can effectively look to the enterprise zone to bring about the desired effect for which it was designed.

In determining a location for establishing a new facility, a particular firm will examine not only the physical location, but will also look at the balance of development of business community and human resources. Any lack of balance in these factors, such as a decaying business district, a second-rate school system, political unrest, etc.,

can create a negative effect on the firms' decision to locate in a given area.

A community with sound government, adequate public services, an educated and trained labor force, recreational and cultural opportunities and a stated commitment to business growth is attractive to both existing and new firms. These firms in return provide the jobs and tax revenue required to maintain government services, educate new workers and improve the overall quality of life and environment for business and people.

I believe that definite action needs to be taken to firm up our present infrastructure if we are to meet the demands of developing the enterprise zone. Over the years, Madison has been fortunate to have had leaders with foresight and vision to establish a solid foundation for the present, always looking to the future. The results speak for themselves.

When my term of office expired in May of this year, there were several vital projects in progress for Madison. The city had annexed land to the south and realized an immediate increase of sales tax revenue due to businesses located in the annexed areas. Additional revenue and jobs were anticipated due to various expansion plans which were presented to the City Council by one of the businessmen.

These plans are on hold because of the unfortunate delay in providing water service to the newly annexed area of Madison. This delay was because of an easement approved by the Metro-East Sanitary District and then subsequently contested by the same authority.

In a recent article in the press written by their representative, it was stated that "the mission of the Metro-East Sanitary District is to drain surface water and maintain ditches and levees in portions of Madison and St. Clair counties." Why then is the Sanitary District opposing the easement which will allow Madison to improve the infrastructure and open a new area for development? Is this the type of cooperation we can look forward to in developing the enterprise zone?

Another planned development for Madison's downtown area was the expansion of the David Connolly Shopping Mall. Three houses have been purchased with the help of community development funds. Purchase of another parcel was being negotiated, with plans to move forward with the development of business in the mall. Will this project die on the vine? I hope not, since it is contrary to the purpose of developing the enterprise zone, and also very important to our city.

In a nutshell, we need the leadership which can carry out the worthwhile goals of the enterprise zone. Let's all think about the pledges of cooperation and make it happen.

Letters

To the Editor:

As the director of the Citizens Utility Board (CUB) for the 21st Congressional district, I have some good news and some bad news for utility consumers.

The good news is that the new Public Utilities Act has been passed by the state legislature. It is the first revision of that act with consumer input since it was written by lawyers in retained for Commonwealth Edison in 1913.

The new Act (SB 1021) has been rewritten to make the Illinois Commerce Commission more accountable to the consumers of the state.

But the bad news is that the short-range effect of this bill will not relieve the pocketbooks of consumers.

In the original bill, we had a 25 percent cap on excess capacity of utilities. That is, the utilities could not charge customers for all of their excess power plants and would have to make the stockholders pay for everything over 25 percent.

An amendment to SB 1021 was added in the House to eliminate that cap, which we felt would have saved each Illinois Power customer $3,700 over the 20-year life of the Clinton power plant.

That amendment passed the House by one vote, with Rep. Flinn and Rep. Stephens from our district voting in favor of the change, which we think will cost each IP customer $180 a year more than if we could have required the stockholders to assume some responsibility for excess capacity.

That amended bill was passed by the Senate, with Vadalaabene voting with the amendment and Hall and Watson voting with consumers and against the amendment.

On the matter of that crucial vote in the House that added the costly amendment, CUB and the Illinois Political Action Committee would like to set up meetings for Representatives Flinn and Stephens so that they might explain their votes to their constituents.

Joy of jogging could injure pavement pounders

Joggers. Everywhere you look there are joggers. And there's one type of jogger that really gets my dandruff up.

Not the ones who jog for their health. Not the ones who jog just to meet joggers of the opposite sex. Definitely not the serious jogger who knows how to jog properly and safely.

The joggers who really gripe me, and they all must come to Granite City to jog, are what I call "asphalt joggers." They are usually found circling the perimeter of Wilson Park, ignoring the acres and acres of grass and trees. They prefer to torture their feet by running on the streets around the park.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not a jogger nor do I think much about exercise and keeping my body fit. I'm also not a foot doctor, but anyone with a little common sense could probably figure out that grass is obviously better than asphalt or concrete for your feet, not to mention ankles, legs and the rest of your body. The soft, spongy grass pats in the park are the only logical choice of anyone who cares for themselves as much as joggers supposedly do.

Why go out each day, rain or shine, and sweat like a hog to help keep your body in shape, the torture your feet and legs by running on concrete or asphalt? It doesn't make much sense does it?

Why buy expensive jogging shoes, designer shorts and shirts and possibly a stopwatch or jogger's watch, all to help keep yourself in shape, then torture yourself with each stride?

Enough about these "asphalt jogger" and the obvious disregard for their personal health. Now to the meat of my complaint.

What really grips me is their TOTAL disregard for the health and safety of motorists trying to drive on these streets around Wilson Park. With the exception of a section of State Street, the streets that encompass the park are very narrow and are heavily traveled daily, making driving on them quite a challenge for most drivers.

The westbound lane of 27th Street, Beniville Street and Fishling Road are not known for being wide streets. Then add a couple of these "asphalt joggers" running out in one of these narrow driving lanes and it becomes a game of the "near miss," as air traffic controllers refer to close calls between planes.

Driving around the park, watching for children playing, pedestrians, other vehicles on the narrow streets and other cars pulling into and out of the traffic is enough to keep even the best driver busy without having to keep one eye on these "asphalt joggers," weaving their way around parked cars, in and out of the driving lane.

It amazes me that more of these ignorant joggers aren't struck or even killed by cars each day. I've had to steer around these "A.J.s" more than a few times myself.

And to top things off, do you think they would run toward the traffic so they could at least get out of the way when a car is coming near them? No way. They run the same way as the traffic. I guess they don't want to know who hits them when the inevitable happens.

More than 70 acres of soft, green grass and thousands of shade trees to jog on and through, but no, they have to run in the streets. Why?

That's all I have to ask, why?

The least they can do for the motorists in this city is to start jogging on Nameeki Road or Madison Avenue, where there are two lanes for these joggers and the motorists to jockey for.

They are proposing legislation to hamper media access to records. There are many examples of such legislation at the state and national level. One of the most recent efforts was Illinois Senate Bill 548. It would have made it possible for requested police information to be routed to Chicago. Two weeks could pass before an answer to the request was given. Fortunately, the bill failed.

What does this mean to you? Nothing, if you don't understand

Media criticism popular and sometimes questionable

Media criticism is popular, especially in light of sometimes questionable reporting.

The criticism has been healthy. The media, in the form of various panels, symposiums and committees to study its problems and perhaps this will lead to more fair, thorough and accurate reporting. At the least, it makes practitioners aware of shortcomings.

The pendulum is on a backswing, however. Where once the media

MESD may self-insure on heavy equipment

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

Leaner times in the insurance industry are having an effect on the Metro-East Sanitary District, leading members of that board to consider self-insuring some heavy equipment, he said.

During a meeting of the MESD board Wednesday, MESD Executive Director Shang Greathouse said insurance on the district's heavy equipment expired July 1. In addition, the district faces a difficult time acquiring another policy on the equipment, he said.

THE EQUIPMENT was covered by a policy issued through Charles Crane Agency Co. of St. Louis. Ed English, a broker for the insurance company, told Greathouse premiums for such policies are tripling.

English said the biggest reason insurance costs are increasing is the drop in interest rates.

"When the prices were down and we had a softer market, we'd collect premiums and invest them so we could cover claims and still make a profit," he explained. "Now the interest rates are down, and we've had the worst claims than we've had in years. The insurance companies are going back and examining their policies to try to make up for past mistakes. Public entities are harder to place."

BECAUSE INSURANCE on the heavy equipment will be harder to obtain, MESD board members are considering insuring the equipment through the district.

The previous insurance policy carried a $1,000 deductible on a tower and $500 and $250 deductibles on other equipment, it was related.

"We don't have anything (claims) over $1,000 unless it would be a complete disaster," board member Dave Bergfield said.

HE POINTED OUT THAT MESD employees perform most of the repair work on damaged equipment. Records show no equipment damage claims have been filed in the past year. Records also show the district paid $8,000 for insurance coverage on heavy equipment last year.

MESD isn't the only public entity facing insurance problems. The Venice School District recently renewed its insurance for almost $2,000 more per year, and the new policy provides less coverage.

At that time, it was noted that the Granite City School District and Madison County may face similar conditions when they renew their policies this summer.

IN OTHER ACTION, a request for annexation from National City was referred to MESD attorneys for review.

Greathouse said National City officials have requested annexation of part of the Cahokia Canal that runs adjacent to the St. Louis International Raceway.

He said National City may be considering annexing the raceway where there is increased activity this year.

KC hosts stranded students

Eighth and ninth graders from the mountains of North Carolina encountered a mountainous obstacle while on a trip to Vancouver, Canada.

The 21 students from Piney Creek and Sparta, N.C., were stranded here when their bus broke down on Chain of Rocks Road. But Tri-City Knights of Columbus Council 1088 rolled out the welcome mat and the group was able to resume its journey the next day.

Sid Miller was in charge of the 21 young people along with their school principal and four teachers. They had been camping out and cooking their own meals, sleeping in tents.

"We were looking for a camping area near here for a sightseeing tour of the St. Louis area when the bus broke down Saturday, June 29," Miller said. They were unable to find a place to camp because of the crowds attracted to this area for a car-craft show.

Madison County sheriff deputies contacted the Knights of Columbus, who provided the group with overnight shelter at the spacious new KC building at 4225 Old Alton Road. Basketball was played in the gymnasium there after the group arrived.

Once the housing arrangements were completed, the students boarded a bus from the Orill Bus Co. and visited the Gateway Arch and other areas in St. Louis Saturday afternoon.

The group left here Sunday morning, June 30, after a replacement bus arrived from North Carolina.

The children had raised money to pay for their trip by selling fruit-cakes and candy.

Their journey continues and is expected to cover 7,000 miles, ending July 18 back in North Carolina.

Immigration detainees make bid for freedom

Two prisoners of the U. S. Immigration Department made an unsuccessful bid for freedom June 29 while being transferred from a hold-over point at the Venice Police Department.

Police Chief Farris Smith said the escape attempt was unusual, noting that most immigration detainees afford few problems during their interim detention in the Venice jail.

The two men were part of a group of nine alleged illegal immigrants housed overnight in Venice. Five of the men already had been placed in a caged area of a van, pending transportation to St. Louis, at the time of the incident.

When the immigration agent and a Venice officer escorted the remaining four men to the van, two broke loose and ran west through Lee Park.

Police Sgt. Joe Meehan chased the escapees on foot, shouting for them to halt or he would open fire. He fired three shots into the ground when they continued to flee.

Requesting assistance from Venice and Madison squad cars, Sgt. Meehan got into his own unit and was turning north on Illinois Route 3 near the Broadway underpass when he saw two men running across the highway toward the Mississippi River.

The sergeant alighted from his vehicle and again ordered the men to stop or he would shoot. This time, the pair complied and the men were returned to police headquarters without further problems.

The entire episode took less than eight minutes, reports noted.

Nameoki Township officials announced Tuesday they have several cases of cheese left from their distribution of commodities last week.

Distribution will begin at 8 a.m. and is restricted to Nameoki Township residents.

Local public hearing will address buyers clubs

Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan has announced a public hearing is set in Granite City Monday, July 8, on proposed amendments to the Buyers Club Rule.

The hearing is set for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Room 316 at Granite City Center, 4950 Maryville Road. Consumers will have an opportunity to detail their experiences with buyers clubs, companies that offer reduced prices on merchandise to individuals who pay a membership fee of annual fee.

Operators from buyers clubs will be available to explain their needs and how they would be affected by the proposed amendments.

Change in jobs for Pennekamp

personal regrets in leaving the local chamber.

"I've worked with a lot of people during my two years here on preparing this community to be competitive, and these programs are almost in place now," he said. "Now that the programs are near reality, I'm not going to be able to take advantage on the revitalization efforts and the enterprise zone incentives."

Pennekamp said he thinks this area is an attractive one for any economic developer.

"This is an extremely good place — it has the potential for a lot of commercial and retail development," he said. "And the community is on the right track with its new programs."

"WITH THE EXTRA incentives of the enterprise zone and the revitalization, I have no doubt things will continue to progress."

Pennekamp said he has offered his help in selecting a replacement for himself, but said it will be up to the chamber's search committee whether he is allowed to assist in finding a replacement.

He said he will be available on a limited basis, after he leaves the local chamber, to assist in programs he has helped start.

"I have the promise of a job in September," Alich said. "But I still have to make it through the summer months. I had to tell my daughter she couldn't go to the fireworks last night. It looks like I'll have to hold off on a lot of things."

Alich is the mother of two, ages 2 and 7.

HOUSE SPEAKER Michael J.

Madigan, D-Chicago, said there was a possibility the Democrats would relent "if the opponents to this bill force me to make a choice. We would have to do something for the people who need help."

Wolf said checks would be available as soon as possible after passage of the bill.

"I know the comptroller's office and all other administrators would be willing to work overtime to do all the work necessary," he said. "And the governor is standing by ready to sign. If we can get it passed this weekend, hopefully people can get their money Monday."

Wolf said he "had no idea" how many people in the local area receive public aid checks.

Convicted for armed robbery

Mack Leonard, 26, of East St. Louis has been sentenced to seven years in prison following his guilty plea May 20 to a Granite City armed robbery charge.

In addition, Madison County Associate Judge Edward G. Ferguson ordered Leonard to pay $95 in court costs.

Leonard was charged with robbery Aug. 7, 1984, after allegedly robbing an employee of the Jenson-Wright Corp., 900 22nd St., at gunpoint June 29, 1984.

An employee had just returned from a Granite City bank after cashing payroll checks for a group of workers at the plant and was preparing to distribute the money when robbed, police reports said.

The stolen money, amounting to $3,197, was being carried in a paper sack by the employee.

Upon arrival at the plant from the bank, the victim was getting out of a van when a man pushed a gun in his face, telling the victim to give him the money Monday.

The employee yelled for help, but two men, both armed with revolvers, grabbed the sack and ran west on 22nd Street toward Illinois Avenue, where they entered a waiting vehicle.

A description of the robbers and the car was issued, and a special agent for the federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Agency spotted a vehicle matching the report turning from Interstate 64 onto Illinois Highway 111. Leonard was arrested at that time.

Q: As a newly married couple, we're wondering if you have any suggestions about how to maintain a good credit record.

A: As you will find, when properly used, credit can be the key to a better lifestyle. If abused, it can cause severe hardships. So, the first rule in maintaining a good credit record is to use your credit wisely. Remember to always pay your bills promptly. This will serve a dual purpose in maintaining a good credit record and in keeping finance charges to a minimum. Next, establish a budget and include the amount you allow for charge purchases in your monthly budget. Don't permit yourself to go over the budget unless there is a real emergency. If that occurs, adjust subsequent monthly budgets to take up the slack. If you have to sacrifice the fixed amount you save each month to make a credit purchase, it probably isn't worth it. Think over such purchases carefully. If used wisely, credit can work for you for years to come.

CHEESECAKE

For creamy coolness

Ah, it's a cheesecake

Crust
1 cup zwieback crumbs
1/4 cup ground toasted almonds
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tbsp. sugar

Filling
1/2 cup almond paste
1/2 cup sugar
2 tbsp. flour
1/4 cup cherry liqueur
3 pkgs. (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
4 eggs, at room temperature

Topping
1 cup dairy sour cream
3 tbsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/4 cup toasted sliced (unblanched)
almonds, lightly crushed

Berry-Cherry Sauce
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen red raspberries or strawberries, thawed
1/2 cup water
1 tsp. cornstarch
3 tbsp. cherry liqueur

For crust, mix crumbs, almonds, butter and sugar. Press mixture evenly and firmly onto bottom and half-way up sides of buttered 9-inch springform pan. Set aside.

Crumble almond paste into large mixing bowl. With electric mixer at low speed, blend in 1/2 cup sugar and flour until no large lumps remain.

Add liqueur. Beat at medium speed about 2 minutes until mixture is smooth.

Add cream cheese, one package at a time, scraping sides of bowl occasionaly. Beat 2 minutes between each addition.

Add eggs, one at a time. Beat at high speed 1 minute between each addition.

Pour into prepared pan; smooth
top. Bake in center of oven 50 minutes at 350°.

While cake bakes, mix sour cream, sugar and vanilla. Remove cake from oven; spread sour cream mixture evenly over top. Return to oven 12 minutes.

Remove from oven; cool on wire rack 1 hour.

Chill at least 6 hours before removing side of pan and serving.

Just before serving, sprinkle top of cake with almonds; press gently into topping.

Pass Berry-Cherry Sauce
separately.
To make it, thoroughly drain
berries.

Four berry juice in small saucepan. Dissolve cornstarch in water; stir in berry juice. Place over medium heat. Stir about 4 minutes until mixture is clear and slightly thickened, like heavy syrup.

Mix in liqueur; continue to stir over medium heat 1 minute.

Remove from heat; cool to room temperature.

Make berry puree by forcing berries through sieve; discard seeds and pulp.

Blend liqueur mixture into berry
puree. Chill.

Makes about 1 1/4 cups sauce.
Cheesecake serves about 16.

Note: To grind almonds, use a mill, meat grinder with fine blade, blender or food processor, grinding small quantities with stop-and-go action.

To toast almonds, use a dry,
ungreased baking pan or skillet.
Heat in 350° oven or over medium heat; stirring to assure even browning, until almonds are light golden brown.

For homemade almond paste,
grind 1 1/2 cups whole blanched
almonds, finely in food processor with steel blade. Add 1/4 cups sifted confectioner's sugar, 1 egg white, 1 teaspoon almond extract and 1/4 teaspoon salt until stiff paste forms.
Store, covered in refrigerator.
Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Cheese dip colors

An assortment of red, white, orange/yellow and green vegetables served with a dip of yogurt and cottage cheese is a colorful salad or snack. Season the dip with powdered salad dressing mix. Yogurt is an excellent calcium source, and the vegetables can be counted on for additional minerals, vitamins and fiber.

Triplets down Bethalto in semi-finals, 7-1

By GREGG OCHOA
Staff writer

ALTON — Before Tri-City's American Legion baseball game with Bethalto, pitcher Allen Zentgraf couldn't buy a curve ball.

But, when the game started the Bethalto hitters couldn't buy a hit off that curve.

"When I was warming up before nothing was happening," Zentgraf said of his breaking pitch. "I went back again and just took my time and got my stride down and everything seemed to work out fine."

Zentgraf, mixing his curve, fastball and a hard slider, registered a complete game 7-1 victory over Post 214 Friday as Tri-City advanced to the title game of the Bethalto American Legion Fourth of July Tournament at Gordon Moore Park.

The right-hander fanned six and walked just two as the Triplets are now 10-9 (7-8 in league play).

As is his habit, Zentgraf threw a lot of pitches going to a full count on several batters. "I try to work the corners," he said. "But sometimes the umpires don't go for it."

Said catcher Derek Merz, "He was able to pitch out of them (jams). I called for mostly fastballs (which the count was full)."

Bethalto's only real threat came in the first when they loaded the bases with one out, but failed to score. Brian Trask and Rich Kearby singled and Dean Kasting walked.

But, Zentgraf fanned Derek Hacke and the fielded a bullet that Scott Hacke hit right back to the mound.

The ball was hit so hard that it knocked Zentgraf on his back, but he still was able to make the play to retire side.

"Allen always starts off slow," admitted Triplet Manager Dave Coakley. "I really thought about taking him out."

"He tends to get nervous at the start of a game and gets himself in trouble. He usually works things out after a couple of innings. But, I wasn't too sure I wanted to wait that long. Sometimes one run is all you need to win this game."

After the first inning, Zentgraf settled down. He surrendered a meaningless two-out double to Kasting in the third. Hacke walked in the fourth, but was left stranded. Trask singled in fifth, but was forced at second.

Bethalto ruined Zentgraf's shutout in the sixth inning when Kearby doubled and scored on Hacke's single. By that time, however the score was already 2-0.

Prior to that, Bethalto's attack was listless at best. Post 214 managed seven hits, but each time the Triplets were able to get out of any problems.

Tri-City, on the other hand, started off slow. They let a golden opportunity slip through their fingers in the first. With the bases loaded, Tri-City scored just one time. Gerald Booker, who led off with a double, scored on a wild pitch. Again the Triplets loaded the bases in the second inning. After Kurt Hylla was gunned down stealing, Mark Bowen walked and went to second on a balk. Booker walked and Merz went to first after Bethalto catcher Scott Hacke dropped a third strike.

However, Kasting got Pat Cathey to fly to center to end the inning.

BETHALTO: Trask 2-1B; Kasting 2B; Kearby 1B; 2B; S. Hacke 1B; RBI: Jeffers 1B; LOB: 7; LP: Kasting (3-inn.) SO-6, BB-8.

Tri-City: Booker 2B; Cathey 2-1B; RBI: Conkovich 2-1B; 2 RBI; LOB: 9; WP: Zentgraf (7-inn.) SO-6, BB-2.

"We had problems moving our runners along early," Coakley said. Things were different in the third as the Triplets upped their lead to 4-0.

Shane Cole doubled and Matt Roe walked. After designated hitter Eric Gray popped out, Hylla slapped an RBI single scoring Cole. Two more runs scored when John Conkovich pounded a single up the middle.

Tri-City added two more runs in the fourth. Merz walked — he had three in the game — and Cathey got a base hit that the right fielder bobbled allowing Fred Becker, running for Merz, to score easily. Cathey later scored on Gray's sacrifice fly.

Cathey, who started the game at third base, had two singles, reached base three times and also scored a run.

"He was a little nervous when we started," Coakley said. "He told me the last time he played third base was in the eighth grade. That's why I made the change in the fifth."

Triplets Are Champs!

Hardin demolished by Tri-City bats

ALTON — Good things finally came to those who wait, and Dave Coakley has been waiting a long time.

Coakley's Tri-City American Legion baseball team exploded for 12 runs in the sixth inning Friday night to win the championship of the Bethalto Fourth of July Tournament.

The Triplets whipped Hardin 16-6 in six innings at Gordon Moore Park. Tri-City advanced to the final with a 7-1 win over Bethalto while Hardin had a bye going into the championship game (see related story).

For Coakley, in his second year as manager, it was the first time in 10 years that he has guided a team to first place in a tournament.

"We have always done well (in tournaments), getting either a second or third but this is the first time we won the whole thing," said Coakley.

Steve Davis and Pat Cathey provided the hot bats. Davis collected four RBIs and Cathey blasted a three-run homer.

"Pat really hit that ball good," Coakley said. "It went way out there in left field by the scoreboard."

Davis' performance at the plate was welcome sight to Coakley. "He really came on and that was good to see because he has been in a terrible slump."

The manager was also pleased with the play of Fred Becker who came off the bench.

Sam Tate, starting his first game after being cut in swimming accident, went the distance picked up his third win of the season.

Tate, however, showed signs of the lay-off. "They were hitting him pretty good," Coakley said. "I almost thought about taking him out."

The right-hander rebounded and was helped by his teammates bats. Tri-City grabbed a 3-0 lead but Hardin took a 6-3 advantage in the fourth inning. The Triplets then scored 12 times in the sixth to ice the game as Hardin used four pitchers.

It was the most runs scored by the Triplets in one inning this year. Against Fairview Heights Tri-City had scored nine runs in one inning, but lost that game.

The championship game started approximately two hours late because the third place game between Louisiana, Mo., and Troy wasn't decided until the 11th inning.

"The boys were getting really tired out there," Coakley said. Nonetheless, Coakley and the Triplets will no doubt trade a little sleep for that championship trophy anytime. "It sure feels good."

It's been a long, long time since the Cards have had three 20-game winners in a season. Yes, these Cardinals of St. Louis are birds of a different variety, a different roost. They fly, they soar, to the top of their division. They do it all. They might even bit a little bit Road Runner.

Whatever they are one things for sure. Right now they're the best team in baseball.

Yep! How 'bout those 'Birds!

Well I just leave it at that. And you know something else? It's comforting to see Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in the NL East cellar. Philadelphia is 11½ out while the financially-troubled Bucs are 20 games back.

Even though the Expos are just a game and a half behind the 'Birds, I don't think Whitey Herzog's bunch should be that concerned with the Lads from the Northland.

No, the Cardinals' major concern, I think, are still the Cubs. Playing half of their games in the minute Wrigley Field, the Cubs can be ever-so-lethal should they catch fire.

The Mets, I think, were a better team last year. They had their shot at a division title in '84, but those tenacious Cubbies edged them out.

As for the Cards, well, they've set the league and all of pro baseball ablaze with their tenacious game. The speed, the hitting and the pitching. The Cardinals have become the model team not only in the National League, but in all of professional baseball.

Even Ted Turner's Cable News Network is speaking favorably of the Cardinals. CNN even went as far to report how successful the Redbirds' relief pitching staff has been without Sutter and his $40 million contract.

Speaking of pitching, it's possible that the Redbirds could have three 20-game winners. Joaquin Andujar has already won 14 games thus far while Danny Cox and John Tudor have won nine and eight games respectively. And, with at least another rotation for each before the mid-season All-Star break, it's possible that each can reach that mark before the regular season ends on Oct. 6.

Bowhunters may apply for special deer refuge permits

SPRINGFIELD — Bow hunters have from July 1 through Aug. 4 to submit permit applications for two special archery deer refuges. The Oct. 26-27 on the Gardner Division of the Mark Twain National Refuge near Quincy and on the state-managed Union County Refuge in southern Illinois.

The Mark Twain archery hunt will be open to 200 hunters and the Union County hunt will be limited to 100 persons, according to Forrest Loomis, Department of Conservation forest wildlife program manager. Permits will be allocated by lottery shortly after the Aug. 4 deadline.

Hunters may apply for either of the permit lotteries by sending a short note or letter to the Department of Conservation. Persons wanting to participate in the Mark Twain Refuge hunt should write to: Department of Conservation, Deer Bow Permit — Mark Twain Refuge, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62706. To apply for the Union County Refuge, the address to write is: Deer Archery Hunt, Union County Refuge, R.R. 2, Jonesboro, Ill. 62552. No special application form is required to apply for either hunt, Loomis said.

"Since the hunting dates for the Mark Twain Refuge and the Union County Refuge coincide," Loomis said, "hunters may apply for only one of the special hunts. We don't want hunters applying for both and possibly committing another eligible hunter if their applications are drawn for both areas. Therefore, the persons who apply for permits in both hunts will be deemed ineligible for either of the special archery hunts."

for either of the special archery hunts.

Each application letter must list the hunter's name as shown on his state hunting license, complete address, 1985 hunting license number and 1985 archery deer hunting permit number.

Because of this last requirement, hunters must apply for and receive a state archery deer hunting permit before applying for the special refuge hunt.

Group applications are limited to two persons per party. Each hunter must submit a separate application note with all the required information. Both applications should then be mailed in the same envelope.

Only one application per hunter will be accepted for either of the special refuge hunts, Loomis said. Duplicate permit applications will result in the rejection of all the hunter's applications.

Hunter who receive permits in the drawings will be notified by mail in early September, Loomis said. Because of the high volume of permit applications, however, it will be impossible to notify unsuccessful applicants.

All Illinois bow hunting regulations will apply to the refuge hunts, with the exception that daily hunting hours will end at 5 p.m. in the Mark Twain Refuge. Each hunter will receive a special refuge bow hunting permit and a packet of information and regulations pertaining to the hunt. The refuge permit must be in the hunter's possession during the hunt.

Pre-hunt scouting is not permitted on either the Mark Twain Refuge or Union County Refuge. Archers will be allowed in the hunting areas during the special hunt dates, Oct. 26-27, only.

Only one deer per hunter may be harvested by bow-and-arrow in Illinois, Loomis said. Hunters who are not successful during the special refuge hunting programs may continue to hunt elsewhere in Illinois until the close of the archery season, Dec. 31.

Loomis said opening the refuge areas for a limited deer hunting program is basically a herd management measure, intended to keep the deer size in balance with the available habitat and food resources.

"The recreational opportunities resulting from these special hunts are of secondary importance," he said. "The primary concern is for the overall health of the deer herd using the refuge areas."

Cystic Fibrosis Golf Classic set for Aug. 19

The 16th Annual Jack Buck-Cystic Fibrosis Golf Classic will take place Monday, Aug. 19, at Norwood Hills Country Club. "The annual event is held to raise funds for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation," said golf chairman, Dan Reilly of Peat Marwick and Mitchell.

The mission is to find a cure and treat children and young adults with Cystic Fibrosis. The proceeds will go to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and for education to increase public awareness of the symptoms which include a salty taste of the skin, poor weight gain, recurrent wheezing.

Cystic Fibrosis is responsible for killing more children than any other inherited disease in this country. There is no cure for CF, nor is there a test to identify the approximately 10 million symptomless gene carriers that hold the CF gene.

Festivities begin with lunch on the patio followed by 18 holes of golf. The day will wind up with the players party where Jack Buck, as campaign chairman will present the coveted five-some winners with their award, along with the prizes for a hole-in-one and closest to the hole. As a grand attendance prize, there is a trip for two to Paris, France on TWA.

The golf tournament, which has raised $800,000 during the last 15 years, is a major fund raising event for the Foundation.

For further information, persons should contact the Cystic Fibrosis office at (314) 721-2490.

Periodical cicadas are making emergence

SPRINGFIELD — This is the year of the locust in Illinois, according to Al Mickelson, Department of Conservation state forester.

Periodical cicadas, often called "locusts" colloquially, are now emerging from the ground throughout Illinois for the final stage of their 13-year-long life cycle, Mickelson said. The longest-lived insects in North America, they've spent the last 13 years underground as nymphs just waiting for 1985 to arrive.

Mickelson said the insects are unlikely to damage healthy, mature trees. Adult cicadas do not eat foliage. If they eat at all during their 20- to 23-day adult life span, they suck juices from their host plants.

A plague of periodical cicadas can, however, inflict damage on small trees, ornamental trees or orchard stock, because of the manner in which the insect lays its eggs. After mating, the female cicada opens a wound in the tree bark with her saw-like ovipositor and deposits 28 to 48 eggs in the exposed sawwood. Each female cicada may open 20 pockets and deposit a total of 600 eggs.

If female cicadas girdle a small twig, the leaves may wither and the twig may break in a high wind. If this occurs to excess, it can ruin the symmetry of an ornamental tree or affect a fruit tree's ability to bear. Very small trees, such as nursery stock, can be seriously damaged by a cicada attack as well.

"The smaller the plant, the greater the potential for damage," Mickelson said.

The only way to protect small trees or ornamentals from cicada damage, Mickelson said, is to cover the plant with an old bedsheet or muslin for the duration of the cicada damage.

Found only in North America, the periodical cicada looks like a miniature monster from a Japanese horror film. The adults are about two inches long and are distinguished by the bulging red eyes and red-veined clear wings. Despite their disturbing appearance, cicadas are harmless to man.

The characteristic oscillating whine that accompanies the appearance of the periodical cicada apparently is a mating call, created by the male with specialized sound-producing organs on the thorax.

Eggs laid by periodical cicadas this year will hatch before the end of the summer. The scaly young will drop to the ground, burrow 18 to 24 inches underground, and take up residence near a tree root from which it can suck sap. The nymphs, as the young are called, lead this underground existence for 13 years, waiting for nature to tell them it's time for the final stage of their life cycle.

Almost overnight, millions of cicada nymphs dig their way to the surface, climb a short distance up a tree trunk where it molts its brown, papery skin and begins life as a winged adult. The abandoned husks cling to the tree bark to be gleefully collected by curious children.

The extremely long life cycle of the cicada apparently is a defensive mechanism to prevent predators from keying in on them for 13 years. Their only other defense, since they cannot sting or bite, are their large numbers and their chorusing whine which seems to irritate predator's ears.

Still, birds and other predators will gather in areas where large numbers of cicadas are present to feast on the sluggish, defenseless insects.

By the end of June the adult periodical cicadas that emerge this spring will be dead, Mickelson said. The periodical cicadas will disappear just in time for the appearance of the "dog day" cicadas, which emerge annually about the Fourth of July.

Dog day cicadas have a life cycle of two to five years, but because their broods overlap, a generation of dog day cicadas appears virtually every summer.

"What it boils down to," Mickelson said, "is that we'll be hearing the singing of cicadas, of one species or another, all summer long this year in Illinois."

Cancer Society golf tourney ends in tie

GRANITE CITY — The teams of Gary Arnold-Robert Hughes and Maurice and Dave Hamilton each shot a 69 to tie for the first place in the Quad-City Unit of the American Cancer Society's two-man golf scramble played at Arlington Golf Course Sunday, June 30.

Three teams, Jim O'Fen-John Simpson, Jack Grievak-Roger Frank and Ed Snyder and Bud Wacker tied for first place in the A flight, with scores of 71.

Three teams: Robert Bucher Jr. and Sr.; Paul and Ken Martz, and Jerry Jerden-Huch McVey each shot 74 to tie for first place in the B flight.

Tim Thompson and Rod Bruner took first-place honors in the C flight with a score of 78.

First-place trophies were awarded to Arnold-Hughes; Grievak-Frank, and the Martz-Martz teams via a score card playoff.

Gary Arnold was the hole-high, just 7-feet 2-inches too far left of the target hole in his bid to win a 1985 Oldsmobile from Woodmore Olds.

David Maher received a golf umbrella from McDonalds for the longest drive on the seventh hole as did Gary Arnold for his effort in the hole-in-one contest.

Contributors to the tourney included McDonald's Restaurants, Glks, Vesel Distributors and Sullies Package Liquor Store.

Proceeds from the tourney were donated to the American Cancer Society to help in its fight to find a cure for cancer.
